TOP: Indian offensive team—highest scoring small college team in the nation.

BOTTOM: Indian defensive team—second ranking defensive team in national small college football.

UPPER RIGHT: Redskins relax in Orlando, Florida.

RIGHT: Forrest W. "Frosty" England, the coach that led them to victory.

. . . . Arkansas State College probably gained more national recognition during the past year than at any other time in the history of the school. A great deal of this prestige was due to the Herculean efforts of the Indian football team, whose sensational regular season record of nine wins and only one defeat carried State to berths in two leading bowl games—a distinction shared by no other team in the nation in 1951. To these victorious gridmen and to their coach, Forrest "Frosty" England, who instilled within "his boys" not only an irresistible urge to win but a caliber of sportsmanship in the highest degree, we, with genuine pride and gratitude, dedicate the 1952 Indian.

Student Government

The Student Government Association was born in the spring elections of 1951. Its forerunner was known as the Student Council, and the changes other than the name were a new constitution and a new method of electing representatives.

In October, delegates were sent to a meeting of student governments of Arkansas colleges in Arkadelphia. Arkansas State, after being chosen by the colleges to help write a constitution for the association, drew up one that was adopted verbatim.

Association . . .

The year's activities were started off by sponsoring the Homecoming dance and other festivities. A television set for the Wigwam was arranged for by the SGA and presentation of the set to the student body was made in January. They also sponsored cheering sections at the basketball games and a prize was given to the "A" Club for doing the most to improve school spirit. Other activities included holding student body elections, arranging for "Little Indian" decals to be printed, and countless other projects to aid or improve Arkansas State College.

Sophomores . . .

ROTC Program

LT. COLONEL WALTER J. HABERER

Under the leadership of Lt. Colonel Walter J. Haberer, and the able assistance of Lt. Colonel Andrew Gorski, the Arkansas State ROTC program was one of the finest in its history. The Field Artillery Cadet Corps at State is the only ROTC Field Artillery unit in Arkansas.

The largest unit since the war, approximately three-hundred and fifty cadets were members of the corps. Fifteen seniors received commissions as second lieutenants at graduation. Four of these, Bill Tausch, Fred Rogers, L. J. Romero, and Tom Liliker, received regular army commissions.

Last summer, seventeen advanced students went to six weeks of summer camp at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where 900 cadets from twenty-four colleges and universities attended. Cadets from Arkansas State took four of the seven "outstanding" awards plus many firsts and seconds in athletic events. After summer camp, six of the advanced students were recognized as Distinguished Military Students. They were Bill Tausch, Hugh Moser, L. J. Romero, Tom Liliker, Wally Stegmann, and Fred Rogers.

The cadet corps this year was organized as a Field Artillery Group of two battalions, each having three batteries. By changing the drill period from two days a week to two hours one day, it gave the unit more time to practice parades and reviews. It also enabled the advanced students to go through survey and firing missions.

A newly-organized crack drill battery made several public appearances, and served as a very able demonstration battery for the rest of the corps. The newly-reorganized ROTC Band added a great deal of color to the regular Thursday afternoon drill periods and the weekly parades of the corps.

Cadets were accepted for admission in the advanced class at mid-term for the first time, and fourteen enrolled. The total of thirty-three is the highest number of first year advanced students since the war. All indications point to an even greater enrollment next year.

Highlighting the year was the annual Military Ball which was held in March. Hal McIntyre and his orchestra furnished the music for the ball which was one of the biggest social events in this section of the state. Features of the ball were the presentation of the honorary cadet officers and the Grand March.

A fitting climax for the year was the annual Federal Inspection May 6. The corps received a very favorable report from Colonel McCone and his inspection team as it always has in years past.

Elementary ROTC is required of all able-bodied male, non-veteran students under the age of 25. Advanced ROTC, completion of which leads to a commission as a reserve officer, is open to veterans or students who are graduates of the elementary course. If selected by the PMS&T, these students enter the course to train six hours weekly and attend one six-weeks summer camp. Training in leadership and drill, gunnery, Field Artillery tactics, and other army subjects is conducted and upon successful completion the student is awarded a reserve commission.

LT. COLONEL ANDREW GORSKI

The annual Federal Inspection last May included a full dress parade and a tour of the class and field work in the basic and advanced classes. Colonel Alexander McCone, senior member of the inspection team, gave the unit a very high rating.

ROTC Rifle Team

Military Ball

Arkansas State's annual Military Ball, sponsored by the cadets of the Department of Military Science and Tactics, presented March 15 was one of the year's most colorful social highlights. It was the culmination of months of preparation by the cadets and featured the nationally-known Hal McIntyre and his orchestra. Mary Ann Donaldson reigned over the ball as honorary cadet colonel.

Unit Gives Blood

Led by Dr. Carl R. Reng, president of the College, and Lt. Col. Walter J. Haberer, the ROTC cadets donated one pint of blood each to the Red Cross Bloodmobile for American fighting troops in the Korean campaign. Due to the large number of donors, the bloodmobile returned to the campus two more times during the school year.

ROTC Band

The ROTC Band added a great deal of color to the regular Thursday afternoon drill periods and the weekly parades of the corps. Under the guidance of SFC Kenneth Bearden of the ROTC staff and Billy Metaxas, cadet director, the band was acclaimed the finest in the unit's history.

Special Drill Platoon

For the first year a crack drill battery and platoon was organized for those cadets especially interested in drill. They made several public appearances, and served as a very able demonstration battery for the rest of the corps.

All sophomore ROTC men are eligible for membership in the Non-Commissioned Officers Club. Two meetings are held each month, one being a business meeting, and the other being a social meeting, at which members bring their dates. Each year, the Non-Commissioned Officers build a float for the Homecoming Parade. NCO Club president for the first semester was David Stewart and Paul Jackson led the group the second semester.

Instruction for the Military Science students for the last three years includes much field work such as mock firing missions, survey, and other military tactics regarding Field Artillery.

Cadet Officers' Club

The Cadet Officers Club is made up of advanced ROTC students. Their bi-monthly meetings are varied and interesting. Programs consist of lectures concerning the Korean campaign, scientific advances in warfare, a wide variety of movies, and other information which will prove beneficial to these future army officers. This year, Hal McIntyre and his orchestra were brought to the campus by the ROTC unit under the sponsorship of the Cadet Officers Club.

The Wesley Foundation is the Methodist student organization on the campus. Its purpose is to supply spiritual, moral, and social needs of the students. The foundation participates annually in the White Christmas program, Religious Emphasis Week, and the Methodist Student Movement, which is composed of Methodist groups from all Arkansas colleges. This affair was held April 18-20 at Fayetteville. The Wesley Foundation was founded in 1939 at Arkansas State College, and meetings are held every Thursday.

The president of the Wesley Foundation is Mary Province; Margaret Wise is vice-president; Bobbye McDoniel, secretary-treasurer; Halley Jo Hart, director; and Dr. Huitt and Mr. McClintock, faculty advisors.

The INDIAN editors have attempted something new this year in several phases of make-up and printing. The first that you may notice is the so-called "modern art" theme on the cover and title pages. We sincerely believe that this kind of work has a definite place in yearbooks as a theme and hope that the student body will agree with this choice of "modern art" (correctly called contemporary art).

This is the first time in the history of the State College INDIAN that the yearbook has been printed by the offset lithography process. Although it differs only slightly in appearance from the previous "letterpressed" annuals, it allows more ease in make-up and color work and is more economical.

Another first is the Studio type which is used as headings for various pages. This is a new type face imported from Holland. It is the first time for this type to be used in any yearbook in this area.

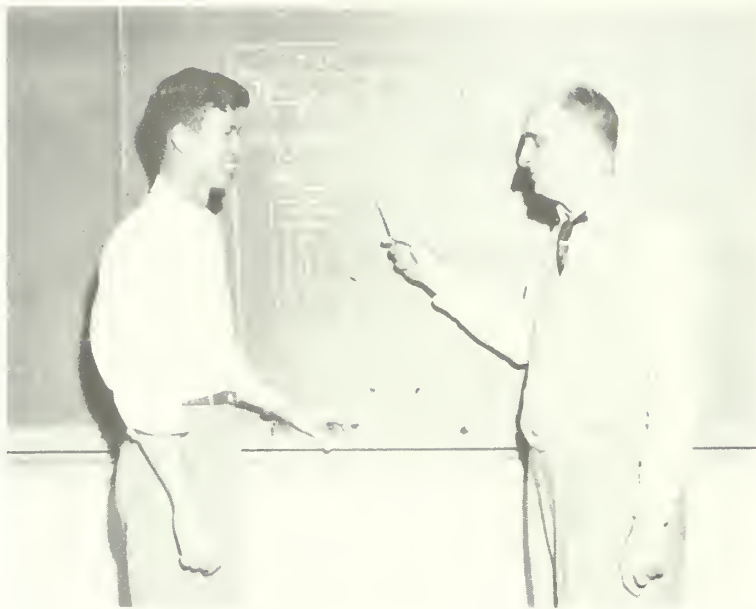

An all time high was set in the selling of ads in this year's annual. This enabled the book to be expanded twenty-four pages (excluding the advertising section). Color was also adding to a greater extent because of the money gained in advertising.

These and many other changes for the good (or bad) were made not to discredit or criticize the work of previous editors, but to bring to Arkansas State an up-to-date yearbook that presents a true history of the 1951-52 school year to our best knowledge.

Coaching Staff

J. A. TOMLINSON
Director of Athletics

Led by an alert, efficient staff, Arkansas State is rapidly gaining national acclaim as a small college power. The staff is under the able direction of J. A. "Ike" Tomlinson, whose former experiences as coach of every varsity sport on the campus have given him a complete understanding of the problems concerning State's athletic program. "Ike" now limits his coaching chores to that of directing the baseball nine.

Head football coach Forrest W. "Frosty" England, closing out his sixth year at the helm of the Indian Gridmen, led his 1951 Redskins to their best season in history, including berths in two post season bowl games. The energetic mentor has written several articles covering the intricate T Formation and is rapidly becoming known as one of its leading protagonists.

Basketball coach John Rauth found himself with a serious lack of reserves and was hampered by several injuries to key players in the early stages of the season but again led his hoopsters to a fine season's standing. This year was his third season as the mentor of the Redskin cagers.

One of the busiest figures on State's athletic staff is wrestling and track coach Harold J. Nichols, who is a figure in practically every athletic event which takes place on the campus. In addition to his dual coaching capacity, Nick serves as trainer to all varsity teams and directs a well-rounded intramural program.

Assistant football coach Harry Larche has proved to be invaluable aid to coach England in working with the football team. Probably the greatest lineman ever to play for the Indians, Harry rejoined the team as a coach after an injured leg cut short a promising professional football career. He also serves as assistant wrestling coach.

1951 Indian Football Season

After a mediocre season in 1950, Coach Frosty England's Indian Gridmen came roaring back in 1951 to hang up the best record in history for an Arkansas State College football team. In ten regular season games the Redskins powered to lopsided victories over nine foes while losing only to Mississippi State, a national powerhouse. On the strength of this impressive record, the Indians received two bowl invitations and became the only team in the nation to play in two post-season games.

The Redskins were the highest scoring team in the nation among small colleges with 456 points in the ten regular season games and the two bowl tilts. State's opponents were able to score only 111 points off the sterling Indian defense, which finished number two throughout the nation in total defense. Mississippi State accounted for 32 of those points, and Stetson scored 35 more against the Tribe in the Tangerine bowl.

Three Indian players were nominated for the Liberty Broadcasting System's Little All-America team for their outstanding performances throughout the season. They were Richard Woit, the piston-legged sophomore halfback from Chicago and the Tribe's leading scorer and ground gainer; Carl Greenwald, hard-hitting senior fullback from St. Louis; and John Koldus, a pass-snagging junior end from Gary, Indiana.

Coach England unveiled his 1951 Indians September 15 against Memphis Navy at Kay's Field, and the Redskins combined a powerful aerial-running attack with outstanding defensive line play to roll to an easy 34-0 victory over the Hellcats. The passing of quarterback Billy Sommers and the running of halfback Richard Woit sparked the Tribe's offense.

State moved over to Starkville, Mississippi, the next Saturday and threw a mighty scare into Mississippi State's Maroons of the Southeastern Conference for the first half. After trailing by only 7-0 at the intermission, the Indians faltered during the second half and the heavier, more experienced Maroons won going away, 32-0.

The long-awaited gridiron clash between two of the AIC's most spirited rivals, Arkansas State and Arkansas Tech, finally came to a head at Russellville September 29, and the Indians handed the Wonder Boys a 46-6 licking—the worst defeat ever suffered by the Techmen on their home field. It was the first time since 1920 for the two schools to send their football teams against each other, but a hot rivalry had developed as a result of the top-notch basketball quintets produced by both State and Tech during the past few years.

1951 Indian Football Season

At Greenville, Mississippi, the next Saturday Coach England sent his vengeance-minded Warriors against Delta State Teachers College, which had upset the Tribe in 1950, and the Indians massacred the Greenies, 43-0. With the Indian offensive machine clicking off huge chunks of yardage and the stingy defensive line thwarting the offensive plays of Delta, the Redskins had an easy time in marking up their third victory of the still young season.

One of the most successful Homecoming celebrations in the history of the college was climaxed on October 13 with a rousing 35-13 Indian victory over Alabama State of Florence. Richard Woit brought some 3,000 pigskin-happy spectators to their feet on the opening play of the game by taking Alabama's kickoff on his own five-yard line and racing all the way for a touchdown. Included in State's cheering section was the largest group of alumni in history to return for the annual festivities.

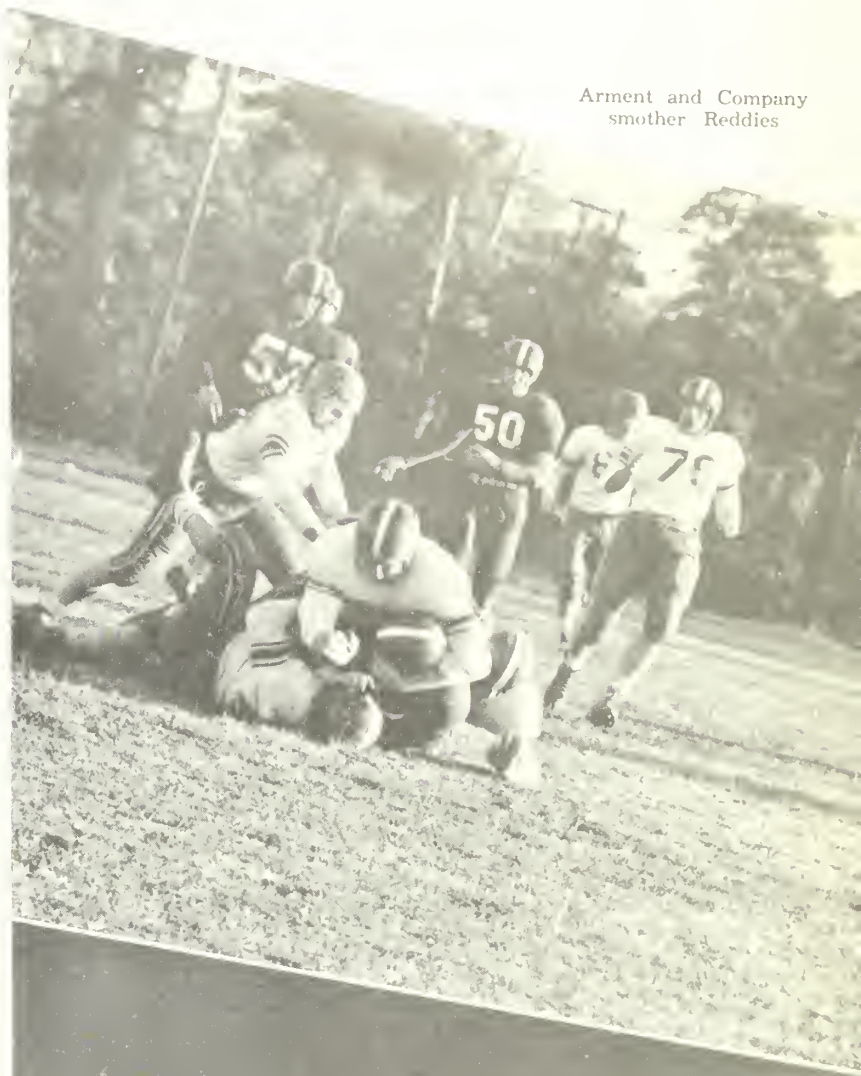

The Redskins took to the road again the next Saturday to meet another Alabama team—this time at Troy. After an unimpressive first half showing, the Indians exploded for 26 points in the third quarter to clinch their fifth win of the year. Woit scored three touchdowns to spark State's offense.

State moved over to Haley Field in Blytheville the following Saturday for a clash with Corry Field of Florida, and the Indians broke loose with their most powerful offensive attack of the season to smother the service boys, 53-0. Woit again carried for three touchdowns to run his season's scoring total to 72 points—nineteenth in the nation for small college football.

After a much-needed two weeks rest, the Redskins squared off with highly touted Pittsburg State Teachers College of Kansas on November 10 for their last home game of the season. The Kansans, who had earlier in the season gained national fame by being unbeaten, untied, and unscored upon in their first six games, were simply no match for the spirited Indians, and State won, 35-0. The game marked the final appearance on the home field for seven of State's players—fullbacks Carl Greenwald and L. J. Romero, ends Ed Corcoran and Vernon Grosse, guards Ed Trieschman and Wallace Jackson, and tackle Lloyd Alton.

The following week State was back on the road for a game with Henderson State Teachers at Arkadelphia on Friday afternoon, and the Indians spoiled the Tutors' plans for revenge with a rocking 37-13 victory. State had handed the Teachers a stunning defeat in 1950 for their only loss to an AIC team. The victory was the Tribe's eighth of the season and seventh in a row.

1951 Indian Football Season

The Redskins closed out their regular season schedule in booming fashion on November 24 by running roughshod over hapless Southern Illinois University, 68-0 at Carbondale. It was the largest score in modern history for an Arkansas State College football team. The lopsided victory came on the heels of the Tribe's invitation to the Refrigerator Bowl game at Evansville, Indiana, December 2. It marked State's first invitation to a post-season game, and all college officials, trustees, and players voted unanimously to accept the offer.

Hoping to land a berth in one of the more important bowl games on New Year's Day, State turned down an invitation to the Corn Bowl a few days later. That hope was fulfilled when the executive committee of the Tangerine Bowl, the eighth largest post-season game in the nation, offered the Indians a spot in the annual Little Orange Bowl classic at Orlando, Florida. Again college officials were unanimous in accepting the bid, and State had become the only college in 1951 to be represented in two bowl contests.

The Indians made their first appearance in a post season contest a successful one by throttling the Screaming Eagles of Camp Breckenridge, Kentucky, 46-12 in the Refrigerator Bowl at Evansville. The game was played before some 10,000 avid fans who had packed their way into Reitz Memorial Bowl for the fourth annual classic.

With the offense running plays with machine-like precision and the defense stingy about giving ground to such heralded ex-college backfield greats as Larry Coutre, Ron Clark, and Bob Kilfoyle, the Redskins turned in one of their best performances of the year. State steamrolled to 25 first downs and a net rushing gain of 396 yards while holding the Screaming Eagles to nine first and tens and a net gain of 55 yards.

Throughout the first quarter, indications pointed to a close, bruising battle. The Indians finally started rolling, however, and pushed across two quick touchdowns in the waning moments of the initial quarter. From that point on, the Redskins had little difficulty in crashing through the Breckenridge line for sizable gains and an occasional six-pointer.

Spearheading the Tribe's offense was Richard Woit, whose sensational performance earned him the annual W. A. Carson award for the outstanding player in the game. The swivelhipped right halfback crossed the goal stripes three times and broke loose on several sparkling runs. Other Indian touchdowns were made by fullback Rudy Wagner and halfback Buzzy Gebert, who each ran for two six-ply counters.

State's bid for a second bowl victory was ruined when the Tribe's pass defense collapsed and enabled powerful Stetson University of Florida to explode for 21 points in the third quarter and emerge with a 35-20 victory in the Tangerine classic at Orlando New Year's night. The Redskins dominated the play throughout the first half and led 13-7 at the intermission, but the vaunted passing of Stetson's two-time Little All-America quarterback, Bill Johnson, in the second half wrecked the Indians' chances for their second post-season win.

Indian fullback Carl Greenwald climaxed an 87-yard drive midway in the initial period by powering across from the four for the first score of the game. Don LaPlante booted the extra point and State led, 7-0. A few minutes later Johnson passed to end Dave Laude for a Stetson six-pointer and Don Martin converted to tie things up at 7-7. Greenwald put the Redskins back into the lead with another four-yard touchdown spurt early in the second period. LaPlante missed the kick for the point after touchdown and the score stood at 13-7, with State out front.

Johnson broke loose in the third heat to pass for two touchdowns and set up a third. The score at the end of the third period found Stetson on the long end of a 28-13 count. State's final score came in the fourth quarter when freshman quarterback Jim Dinges flipped a heave to end John Koldus in the end zone. Stetson added another touchdown in the final period to complete the final score of 35-20.

Thirty-eight Indian players were named as letter winners at the annual football banquet. Included in the lettermen were eleven three-year award winners—seniors Carl Greenwald, Ed Trieschman, L. J. Romero, and Ed Corcoran, and juniors Billy Sommers, "Buzzy" Gebert, Bobby Reid, Bill Arment, Bob Larson, Ed Boldt, and Jim Reed. Leon Kirk was awarded his second letter as team manager. The honorary team captain, most valuable back, and most valuable lineman, as selected by the football team, were also announced at the fete for the football boys. Ed Corcoran, offensive end from Collinsville, Illinois, was named team captain. Gebert, called by Coach England "the toughest little man I have ever seen," was selected as the most valuable back. Playing full time on both defense and offense, Gebert was the only sixty minute man on the team. Jim "Rock" Petroff, 220-pound center from Gary, Indiana, was chosen as most valuable lineman. Petroff was one of the more powerful elements in the Tribe's defense, and was one of the chief reasons why the Indian defenders were the best in the nation.

Season's Recap

Favored in pre-season ratings to take first place in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference basketball race, the Arkansas State College Indians got off to one of their most miserable starts in years, and at the close of the season barely found themselves in fourth place in conference standing. The fourth place showing was good enough to send the Redskins to the playoff among the top four teams in the AIC to determine Arkansas' representative to the National Intercollegiate tournament at Kansas City; but again the Tribe failed to live up to expectations as it dropped a 62-50 decision to Arkansas State Teachers College in the first round then went on to lose 59-55 in a meaningless consolation game.

The Indians finished the season with a record of 13 wins and 13 losses and a conference standing of nine victories and five setbacks. Eight of those defeats came by three points or less, and most of them came at the hands of such formidable teams as Mississippi State, the University of Mississippi, Louisiana Tech, and Arkansas Tech. Another factor which accounted for the Tribe's unimpressive showing was the flock of injuries which beset the squad in the early stages of the campaign. The ever-dependable Jake Holman was sidelined for three games with a badly sprained ankle, and Ray Scott by a similar injury. Oscar Noreuil and Richard Juricic also were down by early season injuries, and Coach John Rauth was forced to depend a great deal on his already shallow reserve strength.

Four members of the Redskin team were placed on the All-AIC squad following the close of the season, although none of them received enough votes to land a berth on the all-conference first team. Guard Jake Holman, who captained the 1951-52 Indians, was named to the second team for his second straight year. Forward Ray Scott was selected for a spot on the third team, and forward Oscar Noreuil and guard Richard Juricic gained honorable mention.

Coach Rauth listed 11 letter winners on the 1951-52 squad. Seniors Ray Scott and Oscar Noreuil and juniors Jake Holman and Perry Stevens were awarded their third letter. Two-year lettermen were sophomores Joe Scott, Jack Jarrett, and Willis Raper and senior Richard Juricic. Those receiving their first varsity letter were Richard McNece, Max Smallwood, and Jakie King. Clarence Lacney received his first letter as team manager.

Squad

Although they were matched against some of the most powerful wrestling teams in the nation, Arkansas State's Indian grapplers again managed to hang up a creditable season's record. After rolling to easy wins in their first three meets of the season, the Redskins faltered when they ran up against such formidable foes as Oklahoma University and Oklahoma A. & M. and finished their 1952 campaign with an overall record of six victories against five losses.

Following the completion of the regular season, the National Junior AAU wrestling playoffs for Region Five brought some of the top amateur wrestlers in the South to the State College campus, and the Indians out-struggled their foes to cop championship laurels. Four of State's matmen—Kenneth Sullens, Jerry Mueller, Al Crançer, and Ronnie Allen—took first place honors in their respective weight divisions.

New Horizons

in fine yearbook production

Each year new ideas and plans come into being, and we, with 27 years of experience, have taken a front seat in the annual producing field. Three types of printing yearbooks are manufactured — letterpress, litho offset, and a new creation this year, a combination of the two.

We feel sure that this latter process is going to prove very popular in the future, as it gives the staff advantage of using both printing processes to their fullest extent.

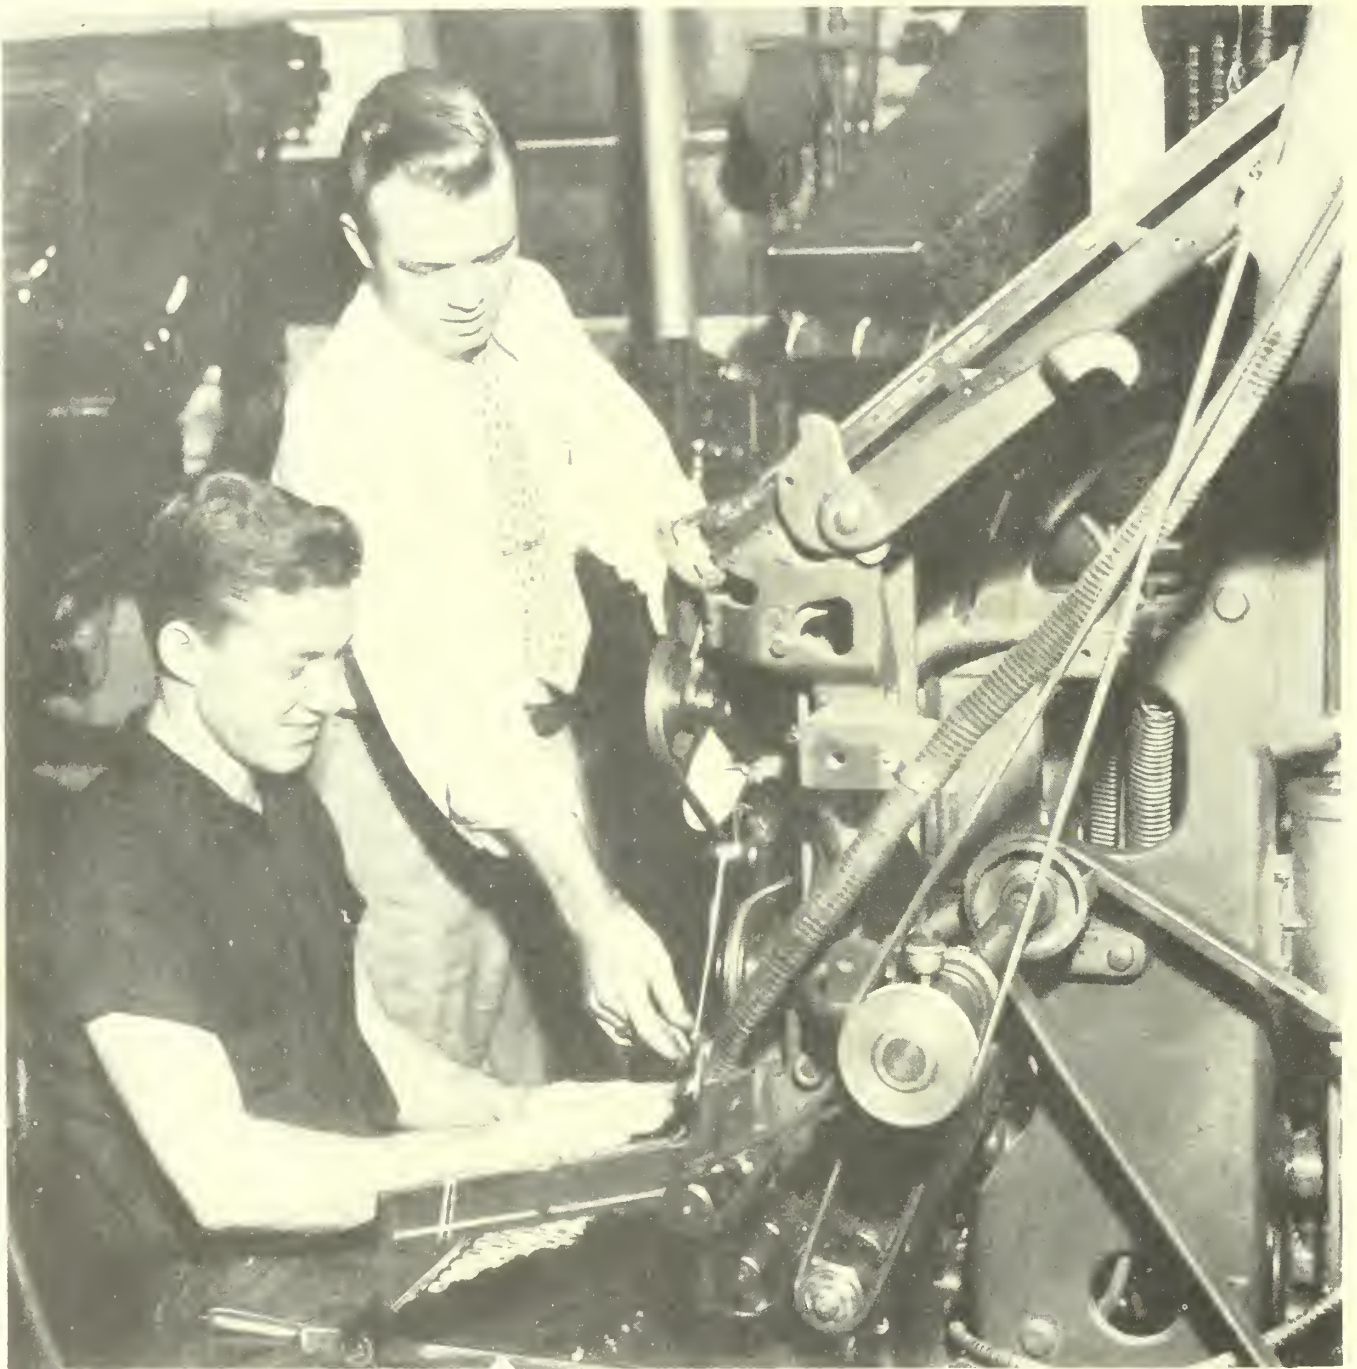

A development that has been improved each year is our proof service. We have been a leader in the movement to produce error-free annuals, and page proofs are sent for checking before any page is sent to press. Since haste becomes a reality when staffs begin preparing their copy, the sending of proofs has proved to be the answer.
